Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the data layer of said each article is configured to provide a wrapping layer which extends across at least two major surfaces of said each article as recited in claim 6 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ceman et al. (2003/0088224; hereinafter Ceman'224) in view of Weinstein et al. (6,564,945; hereinafter Weinstein'945). Ceman'224 discloses a package of articles for daily use comprising a package containing a plurality of personal care articles (20) (page 2, column 2 of paragraph [0023], lines 5-8). The package appears to comprise a bottom panel and a top panel joined with the bottom panel to provide a closed package and the top panel appointed to face toward a user. Ceman'224 further discloses each article comprises a liquid permeable topsheet layer (30), a backsheet layer (28), a data layer (46) which is operatively joined to the article and is intended to be repositioned prior to using the article to enable a full functionality of the article and data indicia (48) located on the data layer and configured to communicate a message to the user. The message related to at least one of motivating the user, entertaining the user, educating the user and inspiring the user. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to position each article in the package with the data layer arranged to face toward the user when the article is presented to the user to provide more convenience to the user. To the extent that Ceman'224 fails to show the package includes an opening mechanism, Weinstein'945 teaches a package (10) comprising a box (12) having an opening mechanism (30) and a plurality of articles (14) having indicia (22). Weinstein'945 further teaches that each article positioned in the package with the indicia arranged to face toward the user when the article is presented to the user from the opening mechanism. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Weinstein'945 to modify the package of Ceman'224 so the package includes an opening mechanism to facilitate opening the package because such opening mechanism is so old and conventional in the packaging art. As to claim 5, Ceman'224 teaches each article includes a garment-attachment mechanism (34, 40). As to claim 7, Ceman'224 teaches each article further includes a wrapping layer (50). To the extent that Ceman'224 fails to teach the wrapping layer being sufficient transparency to provide access to the data on the article, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Ceman'224 to modify the wrapping layer so the wrapping comprises sufficient transparency to provide access to the data on the article.

4. Claims 8-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Brisebois et al. (6,454,095; hereinafter Brisebois'095) or Herrington, Jr. (4,512,476). Ceman'224 further fails to show the opening mechanism comprises a line of separability formed along at least a portion of the top panel. Brisebois'095 shows a package (102) containing a plurality of articles (206) comprising an opening mechanism having a line of separability formed along at least a portion of a top panel (Figures 1-2) or formed along a front panel (Figure 10). Herrington, Jr. suggests a package (1) containing a plurality of articles (3) comprising an opening mechanism having a line of separability (27) formed along at least a portion of a top panel to facilitate opening the package. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Brisebois'095 or Herrington, Jr. to modify the opening mechanism of Ceman'224 as modified so the opening mechanism comprises a line of separability formed along at least a portion of a top panel to facilitate opening the package. The selection of the specific locations for the opening mechanism such as on the top panel or the front panel would have been an obvious matter of design choice inasmuch as the resultant structures will work equally well and inasmuch as applicant's specification does not state that using these specific locations as claimed solves any particular problem or yields any unexpected results.
